Rewards Program

Okay. Rewards program. This is very similar to the rewards program that we did to help grow your group. We're just going to add to it. So if you've already done that one, here's one that you can add.

So we're going to reward our members for taking actions. We're going to give them points and rewards, and we're going to keep track of them. So let's look at some actions. We can give them points for completing homework. We could give them points for helping another member. Commenting on a Facebook live, so, engagement here we go... And posting a screenshot or the image of their work. So you can see all this is them coming into the group and either posting, or commenting, or watching your Facebook live, etc. It's all about increasing engagement.

Okay. So the points. Very similar to the last one, in fact, nothing's changed. We're going to assign points for their actions. We're giving lower points for lower activity, right, and higher points for more meaningful actions or results.

So here's what I've got.

- If they completed homework and they show their homework, you could verify they showed their homework. If they posted their homework in a specific thread, again, don't make yourself look for the posts, give them five points.
- If they post a screenshot or image of different kind of work, you can give them five points.
- If they helped another member, and this is up to you if you want to do this, three points. And the other member has to actually nominate them for this, they can't just say, "Oh, I helped so and so." The other person has to verify this. Three points.
- And if they commented on a Facebook live, they get a point.

So rewards are the same as before and you can add more if you'd like, but: a month to your membership, a year to your membership, coaching ticket to a live event, or a done for you service. And you can get creative here. So these are the same points that are reward levels that are points to redeem for these things. Same as before, as we taught in module number four, here you go, they are here as well. And you're going to keep track of them.

So you can see some of this is very similar to the last one, but I added more so there's more: completed homework, screenshot, maybe comments that are on Facebook live, etc. And they're all here. And I'll give you the spreadsheet for that as well. And then here's the updated amount of points and rewards, and what people can get.

So, I hope you enjoyed that, and hope you enjoy giving out some prizes.
